^(a) Reverse Gender Agreement for some Ordinal numbers: In Quranic/Classical Arabic, cardinal numbers 1 and 2 act as adjectives and agree with the noun's gender. However, cardinal numbers 3 through 10 exhibit reverse agreement of gender. You must use the morphologically feminine number (ending in ة) with masculine nouns, and the masculine number with feminine nouns.

^(B) Roots for "First": The ordinal numbers for first (awwal / ūlā) derive from the roots: أ و ل ('-w-l).

^(Y) Number 6 Root: The root for six is س د س (s-d-s). The dāl assimilated into the tā' over time, changing sidta into sitta.

^(δ) Number 8: When used with a feminine noun in the indefinite nominative/genitive state, the Classical standard dictates the deficient (manqūs) form ثَمَانٍ (thamānin), ending with kasratan.

^(ε) Number 10: Notice the difference in the medial consonant (ش). It takes a fathḥah (عَشْرَةٌ ʿasharatun) with masculine nouns, but a sukūn (عَشْرُ ʿashrun) with feminine nouns.
